Volume LXV

Break a leg! Nathan Bilotta stands tall in Coggshall Park in spite of his brace.

Blah! Mike Leclerc shows his true feelings about the day.

Quiet please! Paul Kopelen tries to get some homework done.

Ta-da! Jen Gaudreau plays the part of a superstar.

Breaking FREE

"Breaking Free" has been chosen as a theme for this year's yearbook because it reflects what the class of 1993 is all about. Even with the variety of people, the senior class as a whole comes together with enthusiastic spirit. There is an energy force flowing from each senior that has just been waiting to "Break Free." This is the year for the seniors to take the challenge and to break from the restrictions of high school in order to experience new horizons and to leave their mark on society. The years of growth here at St. Bernard's have set the stage for the class to make a sudden outburst into the world.

To truly experience high school to its fullest extent, it has been necessary for the seniors to free themselves from the cliques, prejudices and dependencies that bind them, so the class can come together to be united. So, look forward to looking back, as you break traditions and forge ahead.

Birds of a feather. Carolyn Reid and Katie Abare get dressed for practice after school.

Hi, Ho, Silver, Away! Matt White is not moving fast enough for Jess Reagan!

Topless drivers! Eric Judge, Ryan Dooley, Ben Hauck and Matti Laaksonen start their weekend looking cool.

Aha! Mr. Duynstee displays the last traces of the Magazine Drive mascots. Poor puppies!

IN APPRECIATION

Mr. Peter Duynstee and Mr. Michael Jablonski

It is said, "You cannot teach a person anything, you can only help them discover it within themselves." It is this fact that teachers must build upon in order to make a difference in the lives of their students.

We, the Class of 1993, would like to show our appreciation to two teachers, Mr. Peter Duynstee and Mr. Michael Jablonski, who have lived up to this ideal for teachers. Through their time, their patience, and most of all their love, they have allowed us, the Class of '93, to grow and discover all that is within ourselves.

As principal and as teacher, Mr. Duynstee has shown our class what it means to think. He is always there for us, challenging us to think more clearly and to try harder. He gives us the opportunity to accomplish what we otherwise thought was impossible. He is never disappointed in what we achieve. His experience as a teacher allows him to bring his expertise in dealing with students into his job as principal. As principal he gives our class the chance to strive for new heights and to try innovative ideas. He gives us the opportunity to learn what we can achieve through the confidence he has in us.

As the Class of '93 goes out into the world, the students will also be better for having known Mr. Jablonski, not just because we now know the accomplishments of Teddy Roosevelt or the long range causes of World War I, but most of all because we have seen the love he has given to all of us, and the confidence he has in all of us. He taught us how to stand up for what we believe in and supported us along the way. He has always been there with a listening ear and an open heart for one of his famous little chats. What is important is that he took the time to care. Mr. Jablonski, we hope you have learned as much from us as we have learned from you in our time together.

Thank you, Mr. Duynstee and Mr. Jablonski, you have given us all the ability to discover what is within ourselves, which is the greatest lesson of all.

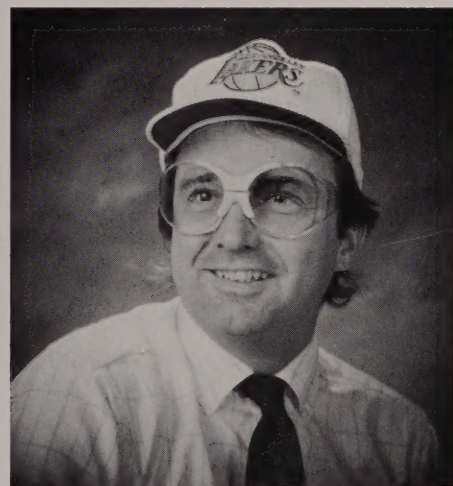

Is it time for class already? Mr. Jablonski shows signs of shock while being surrounded by students.

Night on the town: Mr. Duynstee, Mr. Jablonski, Mrs. Barney, Mrs. Worthy and Mr. Barney take some time out of school to enjoy some fun.

Let's rework this line. Mr. Jablonski advises Becca Bierden in Psychology class.

Loyal fan! Can this be our principal, the honorable Mr. Duynstee?

Lean into it. Mandy Bennett and Katie Abare are falling out of their chairs, they're so anxious to get to their next class.

Three's company. Rene Valcourt, Amy DesJardins, and Tonya Pickett share their views in class.

Bosom buddies. Matti Laaksonen and Jasor Burdett share a religious experience.

Sitting Pretty! Michelle Boutwell appears pleased with herself.

Finally FREE

Hanging Out: Keith Fischer, Eric Judge, and Chris Cote seem intent on listening to Mrs. Fagan.

The Senior Class of 1993 should not be compared to any other class to ever walk the halls of St. Bernard's. This class is, in our opinion, one of the most involved classes because so many students actively participate in all phases of the school community. Our class, which is so large, seems to be an overpowering force that has many close knit groups ready to take on any challenge presented to them. Each member of the class is a unique individual who is full of spirit and love for this school. The class of '93 has managed to keep the faculty and administration on their toes for four years, and this class will be sorely missed when we depart this year. Perhaps our most admirable trait is our friendliness and concern for all the other classes in the school, because we remember what it was like to be the underclassmen and feeling out of it. Hopefully, this tradition of acceptance and help for our own classmates, as well as for those in other classes, will become a long lasting tradition which will be attributed to this senior class: The Class of '93.

This class has certainly left its mark, and will be remembered as the most energetic and independent class of the 90's.

-Jen Brown

Wonderful Night

On March 27, 1992, the class of '93 celebrated its junior prom in style, lighting up the St. Bernard's Activity Center with its spirited personalities and silly antics. Everyone was decked out in their finest duds and the evening was a great success. The music, food, and stimulating dinner conversation provided a relaxed yet exciting atmosphere in which the Bernies could break free to be themselves, and this made it a night to always remember. Moons and stars inscribed with everyone's name decorated the banquet hall and left everyone scrambling at the end of the evening trying to find their lucky star. The Activity Center was alive with excitement as the guests danced the night away, doing everything from the hokey pokey to the chicken dance. The most exciting moment of the evening was definitely the naming of the court, which was comprised of Jenn Cormier, Chris Cote, Cindy Chagnon, Greg Mellor, Becky Christian, Rob Underwood, Jen Mullaney, and Mike Norton. The King and Queen of the evening were Fernando Rodriguez and Joei Godin. The night went off without a hitch thanks to the class officers and advisors. It was a perfect end to a perfect evening when the final dance was the night's theme, "Wonderful Tonight."

Yes, I do have a moon on my chest. Jason Burdett showing off at the prom.

The Majestic Court of the Junior Prom Mike Norton, Jen Mullaney, Rob Underwood, Becky Christian, Fern Rodriguez, Joei Godin, Cindy Chagnon, Greg Mellor, Jenn Cormier and Chris Cote.

Black and White. Keith Larson, Jamie DiPaoli, Kara Courtemanche, Jason DelleChiaie, Joe Celata, Cindy Chagnon, Kim Watson, and Jen Brown get together at the junior prom.

So happy together. Mike O'Farrell and Sarah Savage take a break from the fun and excitement.

All Hail, King and Queen. Joi Godin and Fernando Rodriguez bask in their glory while dancing.

Free 'N Easy!

Who's caught Beth Moniz's eye? Meanwhile, Todd Surrence appears to be in a trance.

How do you build an atomic bomb? Amie Farrar looks intent on doing it right.

Working it out. Chris Cote, Danielle DePatie and Kristy Doiron help each other in English class.

What a pair! Bart Cusick and K.J. Duval seem entranced by the day's religion lesson.

Brains at work! Mike Norton and Mike Knight are finally boggled by a problem!

Can you please pass the chips? Amie Farrar, Kim Young, Melissa Roy, and Lynette Rivera enjoy their lunch break munching and drinking.

Baby, if ya love me, give me a smile! Senior boys show their affection for each other.

Free Style

The Mafia Incognito? Jon Keaveny, Todd Surrette, Rand Refrigeri, Joe Celata and James Karis plot their next move.

Sweet as angels! Leanne Fontaine, Katie Patella, Jen Hutchins, Heather Campbell and Tonya Pickett bask in the sun.

Bad chemistry. Christine Legendre and Heather Leclair are definitely confused in chemistry class.

Deep thoughts. Jason DelleChiaie spends a moment reflecting.

Kathryn Elizabeth Abare

BREAK OUT THE BIBLES

Papers! Books! Tests! Applications! -Not during a few days in December when seniors took a little break from the stresses of school, and had, as Mike Norton called it "a heavenly experience."

Two different groups went to Oakhurst Retreat Center in Whitinsville, each for a two day retreat. The idea for the retreat is something new this year, and it came from the new leader of campus ministry, Father Dennis O'Brien. He hopes that it will become a tradition here, one that will help to bring the seniors together before the end of their time as a class. The retreat consisted of singing, dancing, and the opportunity to get to know our true selves. "I'm a new man now!" was Mike Knight's comment about the trip. It was more than just a break from everyday pressures for those who attended, it was one of the most valuable experiences of our high school years.

"Get ready, 'cause here I come!" Amy Belanger tries to swing with coaching from Tamela Remillard and Keith Larson.

Don't let go! Jenn Boucher gets a little support from her friends Beth Moniz and Kim Hevenor.

Just layin' around.. Jenn Cormier listens intently to the words of her classmates.

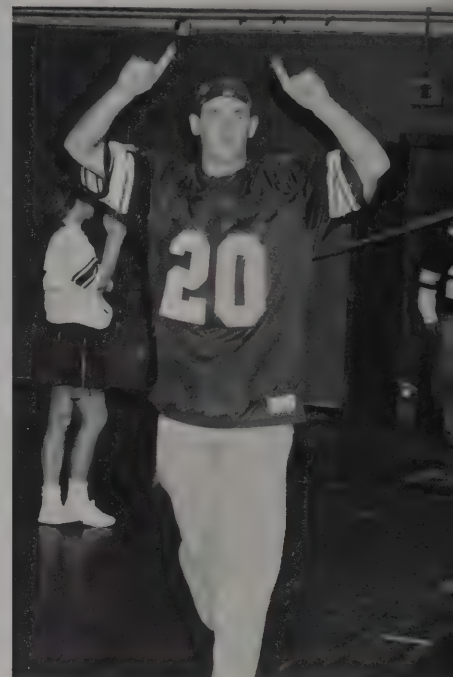

Okay, time for group discussion! Colum gets the group ready to bond.

We've got that Blue and Gold spirit! Jayna McGuirk, Jessica Mitchell, and Christine Legendre stand surrounded by balloons at the rally.

We're Number 1! Jason McDermott shows the crowd that the seniors rule the school.

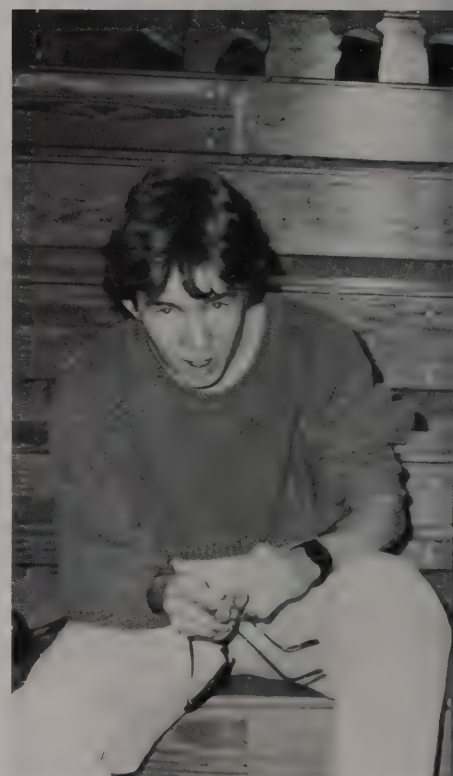

Let's Go! The Varsity Football Team gets pumped for the Homecoming Game.

Ladies Man! Fernando Rodriguez accompanies both seniors on the homecoming court, Chrissy Leger and Queen, Jessica Sands, on the senior float. Homecoming King, Mike Norton, was busy on the football field.

Hey, Jim, got a tissue? Mike Knight tries to clean his glasses while Jim Miller looks on. Both want a good view of the senior skit-or was it the cheerleaders?

Jungle Fever

Welcome to the Jungle! That was the theme which brought this year's senior class its fame. The class of '93 enjoyed its last spirit week to the fullest extent by sweeping all four contest categories. The jungle theme that was stressed through the hallway accurately portrayed the class. The winning banner also reflected the theme, proclaiming, "We're not Boys, We're Beasts".

Once again the class of '93 came out in record numbers to support the school and the team at the Homecoming Game and to cheer on the winning float.

The seniors' domination of spirit week epitomized the class of '93's heartfelt support for the school and tremendous participation in all facets of student life.

-Katie Abare & Randy Miner

Starting to "Break Free!"

When the class of 1994 and Fr. Sullivan entered St. Bernard's two years ago everyone was excited, a new class and a new headmaster. The headmaster made his mark, but the class stayed quiet and unrecognized until this year, their junior year. All teachers wondered about this ever-so-quiet class. At rallies they sat looking up at the sky, and who knows where they were at the football games. The class officers and advisors, Mrs. Raymond and Mr. LeClair did everything they could to get the class together and somehow everyone decided this would be the year to make their mark.

The junior class opened their year with a car wash. This was a fun day and everyone came together to make it a success. The next event that really brought the class together was a retreat at Barlin Acres, prepared by Fr. O'Brien, the class advisors and the class officers. This was a day of recollection, as well as a day to grow together as a class. It was a successful day for all those who put their hearts into it. Right around the corner after the retreat was homecoming. The theme for the juniors was "Under the Sea." Everyone helped out with either decorating the hall, making the float or creating the banner. Jon Sirois, Mike Scales, Jeff Little Mark Sandstrom, and Nate Savage prepared a skit for the rally. And the juniors were noticed. The competition was great between classes and the juniors felt they were the real winners.

Another major event for the junior class at St. Bernard's took place on December 8, 1992, the annual ring ceremony. The class realized just how much fun the class of 1994 could have together.

If anyone looks back to freshman and sophomore year they might wonder if the class of 1994 had been kidnapped and replaced with the junior class this year. But watch out, this is the original freshman and sophomore class and there is only one thing left to do and that is to grow closer in the year and a half left at St. Bernard's.

The class of '95 has become like a family. At first, there were many individual groups and cliques. On the playing fields and at Freshman-Senior Night, however, many were beginning to be good friends. Friendly seniors were ready with open arms to welcome the incoming freshmen. Naturally, they had their fun dressing us up in embarrassing costumes and making us eat M&M's out of whipped cream; but we had fun too, and it brought us closer to each other. Many of us began to attend dances and games to support our school and show our school spirit. The year pressed on, finals came and went, and we were all looking forward to summer and spending time with the new friends that we had made.

September of sophomore year was upon us. Some new students joined our class. A feeling of closeness grew stronger as we entered Spirit Week. With a sense of real involvement, numerous students participated in decorating the hallway and creating a banner. I believe we will keep striving to be the best class we can be and I wish my class the best of luck in the years to come!

BREAK NEW GROUND!

The class of '96 has been and will continue to be an enthusiastic participant in St. Bernard's activities. On the first day of school they received a traditional warm welcome from both the upperclassmen and the faculty, including an untraditional orientation program at the Bernardian Bowl. Then the race was on. Who was to be the first president of the class of '96? Natalie Marabello ran successfully for the honor, and has proven to be a responsible leader.

Right in September, the magazine drive showed this class' determination on a quest to be the best. Freshmen did considerably well for their first time in the drive. Soon afterward, homecoming gave these freshmen their first experience of true school spirit. While the football game was not quite a success, the dance certainly was. The freshmen were represented in the homecoming court by Natalie Marabello and Bill Pelletier. Then in December, Amber Crooker and Brian McGuirk represented the freshman class in the court at the Christmas semi-formal. It was a fun and spirited autumn.

January arrived, and with it, the experience of mid-term exams. Despite high anxiety levels for some, even that turned out to be an academic achievement for this class.

These freshmen have made an impression on St. Bernard's, both in the everyday work happening in classrooms and on sports teams and clubs that are better for having new members from the class of 1996.

Breaking in the Youngin's

For the past four years, members of the senior class have been waiting for their turn to be the head of Freshman-Senior Night. They had anxiously planned costumes and the games that freshmen would play. When October 21, 1992 finally arrived, the frightened freshmen were reassured by their seniors that they did not have to be embarrassed. To prove that this night really was not simply to humiliate the freshmen, many of the seniors volunteered to take part in the games too. Members of both classes rolled peanuts with their noses, played Crisco Twister, and got covered with pudding while bobbing for apples. As the night progressed, the freshmen noticeably relaxed and many new friendships were formed. Some comments that we have heard since that night are: "The night should have been longer," Vicki Melin said. Tim Knittel remarked, "I can't wait till I'm a Senior!" "The only thing worse than wearing these uniforms were the costumes," commented Kevin McKoon. Erin Hevenor said, "It was really neat! Even though my senior was sick, the other seniors tied me to three other freshmen and made me feel that I was still a part of the night." This night was just another example of how great all of the students at St. Bernard's really are.

What's next? Tim Knittel, Christie Hotaling, and Allison Pallotta await their cue from Mr. Fay.

National Honor Society

The 1992-93 school year was an exciting one for the National Honor Society. With the guidance of Mrs. Grenier and Mrs. McGuirk, the NHS was able to achieve many of its goals. Members worked together both within the school as well as within the local community to provide service to those in need. Under the able leadership of President Chrissy Leger, Vice-President Elizabeth Esielionis, Secretary Jennifer Brown, and Treasurer Mandy Bennett, NHS has prospered greatly this year.

The zenith of the year was the Senior trip to Washington, DC. With the help of Father Sullivan these Seniors took the city by storm. The four days spent in the nation's capital provided memories which will last a lifetime.

Art Club

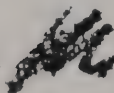

The 1992-1993 Art Club, inspired by Suzanne Remillard, colored the school with many creative events. Co-Presidents, Bart Cusick and Cindy Chagnon led this group with the help of Vice-President Jenn Kymalainen, Secretary Christine Legendre, Treasurer Darcy Gagne, and Activities Coordinator Jessica Mitchell. For Spirit Week the members of the Art Club helped out with making and selling football ribbons. Later they sponsored a bake sale, and with the money earned, visited local museums. The club experimented with molding papier maché creatures to broaden their talents, along with many other interesting endeavors. This club is not just a bunch of individual artists, but is a group of people, joining to be a creative unit. You don't have to be an artist to join this club, just willing to have some fun.

Caught in the act! Gage Prentiss and Greg Burdett are surprised while working on their latest artwork.

Long live the bikers! Keith Larson, Jason Delle Chiaie, and Jason Kamel, with their advisor, Mr. Monahan rest up after planning a strenuous ride.

Bike Club

The Bike Club this year, although small in number was large in ambition. On every outing this small group of riders gathered and headed out for an invigorating ride in the fresh air. They rode the streets of Fitchburg, as well as the back roads and pathways of surrounding towns.

Under the direction of Mr. Monahan, these young cyclists have created many memorable moments and gained a greater appreciation of the outdoors on these trips. The Bike Club is still a relatively new program at St. Bernard's; however, if the present enthusiasm continues, the Bike Club will be a permanent facet of the St. Bernard's experience.

Who's your friend? Jess Regan practices her counselling on Bert.

Peer Leaders

Every other Thursday and Friday afternoons, the old gym has been filled with many concerned students. These students spend their afternoons discussing problems facing all teenagers, as well as their own personal issues. Mrs. Buckley coordinated workshops with guest speakers to educate these students on subjects such as alcoholism and teen pregnancy. This information provided techniques for members to cope with their own everyday stresses, and they will now be able to help others, through what they have learned as peer leaders.

-Heather Leclair

Could this be the new Judds? Mrs. Boudreau and Mrs. Buckley experiment with new music for the folk group.

Deep in thought! Nicholas Adams, Helen Cho, Pat Longley, and John Bumpus practice a piece for the jazz band.

Are you all ready? Some A Period chorus students enjoy some singing time.

The Gift of Finest Wheat. Michelle Boutwell, Becky Christian and Mrs. Boudreau practice for the school liturgy.

Music Clubs

The music clubs have provided the student body with many enjoyable hours of musical entertainment. From the orchestra to the jazz band, and from the chorus to the folk group, these students have given much of their time to make music an important part of the St. Bernard's experience.

Every Monday and Wednesday during A Period some thirty students file into the auditorium, with instruments in hand. Then, directed by Mr. Fay, they warm up and begin to play. The hours of practicing culminated in a beautiful performance of their pieces.

Each Monday afternoon the members of the jazz band play their hearts out practicing for their concert and enjoying the benefits of their musical talent.

Under the direction of Mrs. Kathy Ludt, twenty-three students form the chorus and sing the praises of St. Bernard's High School this year. Their many enjoyable, yet hard-working hours, finally paid off in a concert for Christmas combining their music with that of the orchestra.

The school masses this year have been made more pleasurable through the talent of the folk group. Singing the praises of God, these vocalists expressed their faith to the delight of all those in attendance.

The expansion of these groups has added music to the lives of all of the St. Bernard's family, and their talent is much appreciated.

-Allison Palotta and Eirinn Flynn

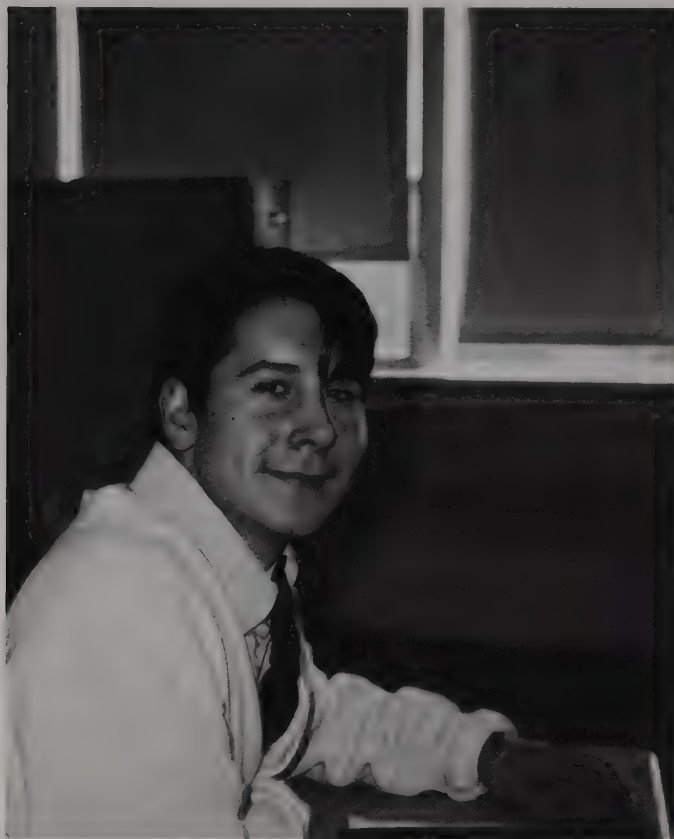

The new members of the Boston Pops? Allison Pallotta, Tom Whitestone and Thea Houghton, practice an orchestra piece for their concert.

Let's have an E sharp. Mr. Fay conducts Deirdre O'Shea, Erin McCaffrey, and Eric Kallio.

Blue & Gold

Yes, I am here! Rob Underwood shows up for his first meeting on the Blue & Gold staff.

Don't mess with us! The 1993 editors Randy Miner, Katie Abare, Eirinn Flynn, and Matt White are standing strong for the paper.

Although the beginning of the year was filled with many financial struggles, with the help of their understanding advisor, Mrs. Worthy, the editors and staff of the Blue & Gold were able to work together diligently and produce several good issues of this popular school paper.

The Blue & Gold has always covered the activities going on in the school; however, this year the staff decided to make the paper more involved with world issues, such as the election and presidential inauguration; as well as the concerns of the student body. This new concept for the paper was well received by the Bernardians and will serve as a model for the paper in years to come. With much talented writing coming from the underclassmen, along with the editors, the Blue & Gold had a very successful year and will have many more in the future.

-Katie Abare

What was that? Jenn White and Gage Prentiss show their interest in an idea for an article.

Can we have a few minutes, please, Mrs. Rouleau?! (Top) Maria Adams, Beth Moniz, Amy Jo DeVito, and Laura Houle. (2nd) Amber French, Karen Woodland, Amie Farrar, Mandy Sanders, Alexis Chicoine, Sharon VanSickle and Randy Miner. (3rd) Amy Brown, David Baldassarre, Kerrie Carnes, Becky Christian, and Michelle Boutwell all request a small break from their daily duties in the office.

Office Aides

The invaluable office aides... the dedicated men and women of St. Bernard's who work tirelessly for all of us. They give up their study halls every day to do the simple but necessary tasks that need to be accomplished. They stuff envelopes, sort papers, run errands, and bring messages to teachers and students alike. They help keep the school running smoothly and efficiently, and they enable the administration to have the time to do their more important tasks. What would we all do without them?

-Kathleen O'Connor

This is great fun! Amy Jo DeVito enjoys her job.

What may I do for you? Robin Haman arrives for her daily duty as an office aide.

Are these for me? Michelle Boutwell is greeted by dozens of roses as she begins her work in the office.

Where is he this period? David Baldassarre searches for a student to get a message to him.

Student

Freshman orientation, rallies, dances, flower sales, homecoming spirit builders... who makes these things happen? Behind the scenes of most of our school events there lies a hard-working group of dedicated individuals who spend countless days and nights brainstorming innovative new ideas to make St. Bernard's a more enjoyable place for all of us.

The year began with an exciting orientation planned by the dedicated officers to welcome the new freshman class. In October, as soon as the new representatives were elected, they were involved in sponsoring the most successful homecoming week in many years. Throughout the year Student Council coordinated many fun-filled activities to make the student body's year more pleasurable for everyone.

The work of a student council member often goes unnoticed; however, in reality it is a job only undertaken by someone with immense school spirit and dedication. Those who have served on the Student Council of 1992-1993 have exemplified what it truly means to be Bernardians. They can reflect back on this year with pride.

S.A.D.D.

Students Against Driving Drunk. It is a relatively new concept in the nation, and only a second year program here at St. Bernard's. Last year, SADD was founded by Nathan Bilotta, Jennifer Gaudreau, and Jenn Boucher, and it has been running strong ever since. The organization has increased in popularity, and the membership this year has been raised to thirty-five active members.

This year, SADD is under the new leadership of the following officers: President Jennifer Boucher; Vice-President Elizabeth Esielionis; Secretary Kimberly Hevenor; Treasurer Jessica Sands; and Coordinator Kathryn Abare. SADD's purpose is to educate the community at St. Bernard's of the hazards of drunk driving. With an upcoming dance planned and several guest speakers coming to share their experiences, the rest of the year is expected to be both fun-filled and an educational time.

Amnesty

Formed in 1969, Amnesty International is a group with over a million members who strive for the basic human rights of individuals all over the world. We try to make the world a better place for our fellow man by writing letters to governments who violate our mandate; educating others; attending vigils, concerts, and rallies; and by raising money for our group to fight the injustices that go on throughout the world every day.

Amnesty International's second year here at St. Bernard's has been very successful. With the help of faculty advisor Michelle Miner, group coordinator Matthew White, Secretary Jennifer White, Urgent Action Directors Justin Alford and Amy DesJardins, Treasurer Amber French, Publicity Director Ketthip Thirakoun and our over fifty dedicated members, we have been able to write many letters, attend numerous events and hold several fund raisers such as "Kidnapped!" which was held last December. This event not only raised money but also raised the consciousness of students.

Amnesty International is unique because our purpose is to save the lives of those who can not save themselves. If the dedication and hard work of Amnesty International members is any indication, it seems that Amnesty will be an integral part of St. Bernard's for quite a while.

-Matt White

Ski Club

Days seemed unbearably long, the homework was piling up, and the winter blahs were chasing fun away-then came the ski season.

For six weeks the St. Bernard's Ski Club braved winter's storms to enjoy the cold, crisp days and even colder nights in the glorious surroundings of the Wachusett Mountain Ski Resort. The Ski Club provided its members with an opportunity to take a break from the pressures of academic life just long enough to make a few runs down the mountain, grab a bite in the lodge, and enjoy a few laughs with friends.

As the snow began to melt, the Ski Club members realized their time on the slopes was running out; but then they remembered-there's always next winter.

-Katie Abare

Which one next? Heather Robinson and Chris Stone contemplate which trail they will conquer next.

That looks good! Mike Jengo, Chuck Courtemanche, Mike Schnare and Ken Stone enjoy some snacks.

All ready and no place to go! Kar Courtemanche and Dave Baldassarre decide on a break.

The three musketeers go skiing! Paul Kopelen, Kathleen O'Connor, and Gage Prentiss head back out on to the slopes.

I did take a few runs! Rob Underwood tries to convince Melissa Hulecki that he really has done some skiing.

How tiring! Katie Patella and Meighan Haughland register their exhaustion after skiing.

French is my life! Gloria Vargas sits back and enjoys her French class.

Did I do this right? Amanda Westerling seeks help from her English teacher Mrs. McGuirk.

Congrats! Justin Alford receives a book for an award in academics from Mr. Conry.

So there! Katie Schmitt, Kelley Mueller and Michelle Boutwell wait patiently for their senior class picture to be taken at Coggs Hall.

STRESS FREE...NOT!

STB's seniors learn the word responsibility.

It's 3:30 in the afternoon and you were supposed to be to work for 3:00 ... You're two weeks late and you still haven't paid your insurance and your car might be repossessed... You just got a letter from the college you got accepted to stating that you're only eligible for $1,000 in funding and you need $8,000 more. Does this sound familiar? I'm sure a lot of the seniors at STB can relate to these incidents.

In the dictionary, stress is defined as a emotionally disruptive or disquieting influence; distress. But at STB stress is defined as "Aaagh !!!" As a person gets older and closer to stepping out into the real world, one needs to take on certain responsibilities that will help him/her survive in order to be considered mature.

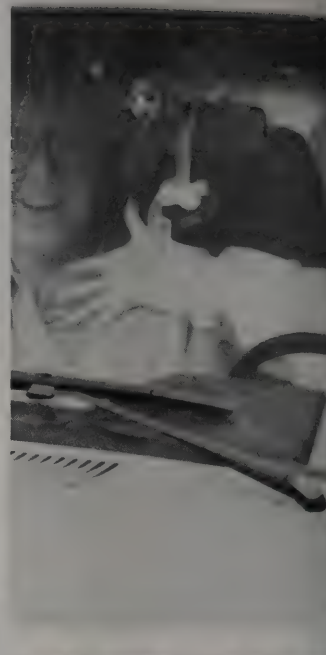

The stress put upon a student involves money... getting a job... a car ... and saving for college. This merry-go-round continues until the stress gets so bad that the student screams, "Stop the world I want to get off!" Yet eventually one calms down and breaks out of the stress factor until the next phase in one's life begins. So hang in there and know that you are not in this boat alone!

BREAK OUT THOSE DANCIN' SHOES!

On Friday November 13, 1992 the senior girls and their dates gathered together for the annual Father-Daughter Dance at the Oak Hill Country Club. Everyone arrived in their finest attire anticipating the evening they had been waiting for since freshman year.

To begin the evening, Michelle Westerling sang a beautiful version of Bette Midler's Wind Beneath My Wings, accompanied by Sarah Cox. This was dedicated to all the dads present.

Following the song all were served a delicious meal and were entertained by the music of 3 Guys. After dinner, the selections for the couples of the evening were chosen. The look-alikes of the night were Beth Moniz and her dad. Heather Leclair and her dad were dubbed Best Dancers. Finally the honor of Father and Daughter of the evening was given to Melissa Roy and her father.

The evening ended with dancing, and the fathers even joined in on the popular Electric Slide and the Chicken Dance. This night was one that the senior girls will not soon forget, thanks to the organizational skills of Mrs. Grenier and Mrs. McGuirk.

-Jenn Boucher

Best buds! Jayna McGuirk and Jen Kymalainen take a break from dancing.

FREE TO SHOW OUR COLORS

When I woke up it was one big blue and gold... This was the scene at STB during the week of Oct. 19th to the 23rd... a blue and gold blur.

What was happening? Everyone was getting hyped to kick off another great school year. By looking on the students faces (and administration) this was going to be a year to remember! One could also tell everyone was psyched to be back at school with their friends after the summer break.

With all the things going on at school, like Frosh. Senior pep assembly, hall and float decorating, spirit making, skit practicing, Homecoming & Gold Day and of course, Spirit Week, it was hard to concentrate on school work.

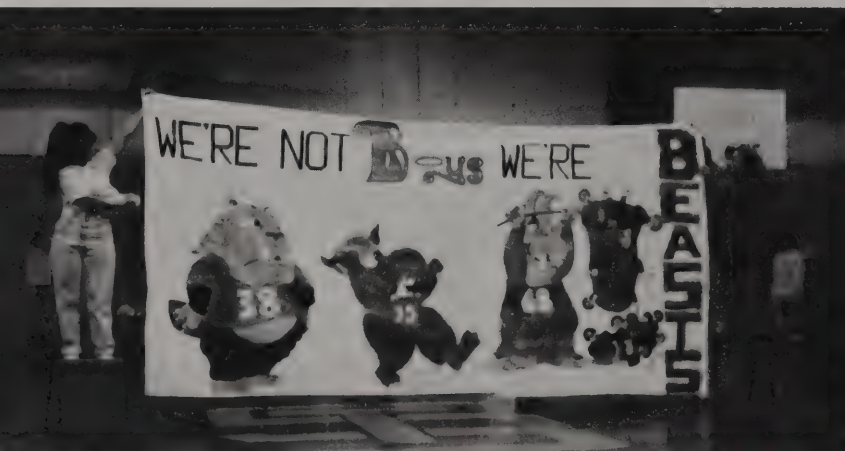

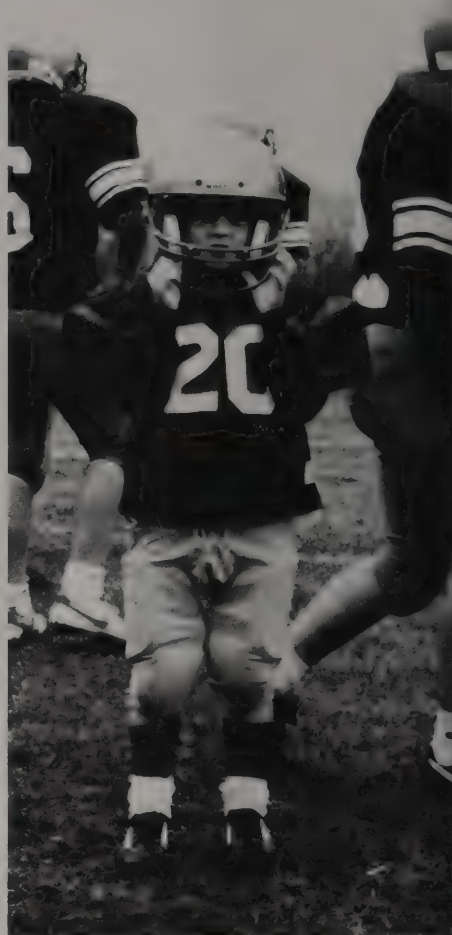

But, after the fog had cleared, in the end everyone was filled with school spirit and proud to be at STB's with another school year underway!

Nathan, Nathan, Nathan Detroit! Nathan Bilotta and Michelle Westerling discuss their "marital problems."

Why, thank you! Joei Godin accepts the help of a kind gentleman.

"Would you like a tour?" Liz Eselionis rehearses her lines backstage before the show.

"Sit down you're rocking the boat!" Nathan Bilotta, Mike Knight and Keith Larson warm their voices for the show.

Mr. Gradrind. (Ryan Bernard) speaks to Mr. Jeary (Joe Celata) about taking a misfortunate girl into his home.

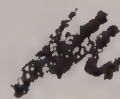

"Very boring"... James Karis and Jen Gaudreau critique the book Euclide, according to them, a boring interpretation of the meaning of life.

"But, Father..." Louisa (Jen Gaudreau) argues with her father about never being able to have the life of a normal child.

Line, please! Bart Cusik during a very stressful dress rehearsal.

"Road of Life." Pam Bolduc reads the poem she wrote, during the Junior Ring Ceremony.

See my new ring! Mike Scales, Rich LaPlante, Jeff Little and Mark Sandstrom show Fr. O'Brien their rings.

I bless this fountain... Fr. Sullivan blesses the water in the fountain so the class officers can bless the congregation with pine branches dipped into it.

DON'T BREAK IT!

Here we come! Representatives of the junior class lead the procession into the auditorium with Beth Burzynski as cross bearer.

On December 8th, 1992 the class of '94 gathered together for the eagerly anticipated Junior Ring Ceremony. The ceremony was organized by the class officers who spent a good number of afternoons gathering pictures for the slide show, selecting the music and choosing the material for the Mass.

What made this evening extra special was that almost all of the juniors participated. Even those who had not purchased a ring were called up and given a key chain as a part of the ceremony. This event brought this class closer together because it was a night for sharing memories and creating one wonderful new one.

Something that made this ceremony unique was the working fountain filled with water that was blessed by Father. In turn, the junior class officers blessed the congregation. Also, the students had prepared a banner to hang above the altar to declare the theme of "Friends Forever."

After the closing song of the liturgy, Pam Bolduc read a poem she had written entitled "Road of Life" to introduce the slide show. The slides were enthusiastically received, reminding everyone of shared times and moments with friends.

It was a night filled with laughter and excitement, beginning from the time they walked into the auditorium and lasting until they left Singapore restaurant. It is a memory that will not be easily forgotten.

-Kathleen O'Connor

It's stuck! Jen Fluet fiddles with the slide projector.

Alleluia! Folk group members sing at the Mass to show their support for the junior class.

BREAK OUT THE MISTLETOE!

On December 26th, 1992 the annual Christmas Dance was held at the Activity Center, sponsored by the senior class. There were many students that attended the affair in festive attire. The evening began with a delicious dinner, followed by several hours of dancing.

Upperclassmen chosen for the court were King and Queen Brian McMilleon and Joy Zambrano, seniors Matti Laaksonen and Jessica Regan, juniors Matthew L'Ecuyer and Melissa Cote. From the sophomore class were Jamie Shea and Laurie Caton and the freshmen were Brian McGuirk and Amber Crooker.

As the evening drew to a close, many people commented that they had an excellent time, and they were glad that they had decided to attend.

-Joy Zambrano

Oh my goodness! Jess and Matti can not believe they were picked to be on the court.

The King and Queen... Joy and Brian share a royal dance together.

I feel so special! Missy and Matt accept the congratulations of Fr. Sullivan on their special honor

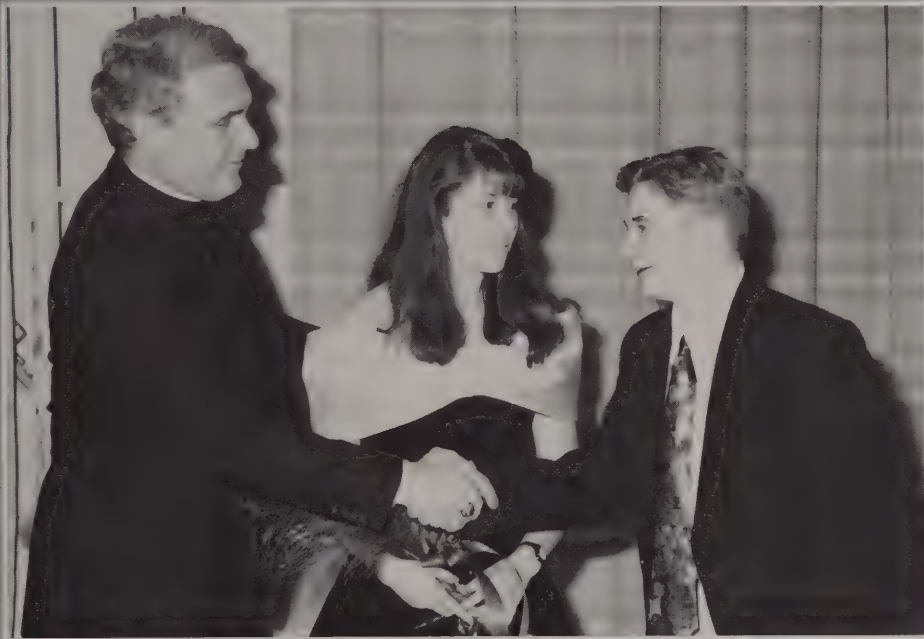

Three fair ladies... Amber Crooker, Christina Hebert and Jessica Mateik enjoy a night of Christmas cheer.

May I have this dance? Michelle Westerling and '92 grad Jason Marcotte trip the light fantastic at the Christmas Dance.

Ladies in waiting. Amy Jo DeVito and Joei Godin with their dates Pat Martin and Chris Cote at the Christmas Dance.

Nice Going! Fr. Sullivan shakes Jamie Shea's hand and congratulates him and Laurie Caton for being chosen for the court.

FREE SPIRIT

Nineteen seniors - one priest - together they make a team. On October 6, 1992 this team, after many meetings full of fun and spiritual growth, entered into a covenant with God by becoming Eucharistic Ministers.

With the Bishop, faculty, parents and fellow classmates in attendance, these young adults stepped forward to accept the responsibility of serving the church, as well as the community.

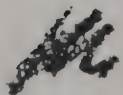

Father O'Brien gave his time, love and patience to these students, in order to make sure that they would be confident in undertaking this responsibility. With his guidance, these seniors took on this vocation with great enthusiasm and will serve in this ministry with pride.

- Katie Abare, Jenn Boucher, Kim Hevenor, Jess Regan and Jess Sands

Amen. Jessica Regan, a newly installed Eucharistic Minister distributes the host to Mrs. Schmitt.

Alleluia! Jen Cormier, Kim Hevenor, Jenn Boucher, Jess Sands, Danielle DePatie and Jo Zambrano listen intently as they wait to make their solemn promise.

A father's pride. Mr. O'Neill congratulates daughter, Kellie.

Don't drop it! The Bishop accepts the ciborium from Rob and Paul Kopelen.

FREE FASHION

On October 4, 1992, the Hogan Center at Holy Cross College was a bustle of activity. Inside, students and teachers of all shapes and sizes were getting ready to strut their stuff in front of a packed house. The event was the annual Adopt-A-Student Fall Fashion Show, which was held in an effort to raise money for the students who would like to attend one of the diocesan schools but do not have the money to do so.

This event, which raises thousands of dollars, could not have taken place without the hard work and dedication of the co-chairwomen, our very own Mrs. Grenier and Mrs. McGuirk. These women were responsible for everything from scheduling appointments for students, to helping the students practice modeling techniques, to making sure the models were in the right place at the right time, and wearing the right clothes.

The entertainment for the evening was provided by various schools, St. Bernard's, Holy Name, St. Peter-Marian, and Worcester Central. The models, both girls and boys, whirled around the stage to the beat of the music, having a great time, while also pleasing the audience. Although it was obvious to everyone in the room that the students from St. Bernard's could not be outdone, the guest appearance of Mr. Conry in his "purple leisure suit" was an act that was impossible to follow! This afternoon was a gala that no one will forget.

- Jenn Boucher

Comin' at ya! Jenn Boucher shows what's in in the 90's.

I'm Cool! Michael Paine is smooth as he shows us his idea of fashion.

Where are the cute waiters? A group of sophomores enjoy their meal at Mamma Leone's.

Did I win? Dave Baldassarre waits to see if he won the birthday game...and $10.

We should have taken a plane! Jason Kamel enjoys the bus ride to New York.

Ziti or Linguini? Fr. O'Brien and Mrs. Buckley decide what to eat.

FREE DINNER IN N.Y.C.!

Suddenly I woke up and it was 5 A.M. My alarm clock hadn't gone off! I ran down stairs to get ready and I only had ten minutes or I would miss the bus. I jumped in the car at 5:45, and pulled up at the A.C. parking lot.... Phewww!!! The bus hadn't left yet. Getting out of my car I glanced over to the bus and it looked like a bunch of zombies were getting on it! But, it was the tired kids from school.

Are these people crazy? What would compel them to get up at five in the morning? These students are the "lucky ones," some of the select few that sold enough magazines in September so they could miss a day of school and hop on a bus at the break of dawn to go to New York City.

Every year the administration hands out these packets that could change a student's life, their goal... TOGET OUT OF DRESS CODE! However, some students have a higher goal, to sell $260 dollars worth of magazines to be qualified to go to New York to "shop till they drop" at Macy's and Rockefeller Center or just see the sights at Pier 17 on the North Shore. Of course, no one could wait to eat dinner at Mamma Leone's at the corner of 24th and 5th St, a three course feast that could not be topped!

This trip is full of wonderful sights, I speak from experience as a veteran of four trips, each different from every other. Sure, we went to the same places every year, but the atmosphere made it exciting!

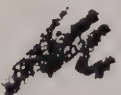

-Kristen Bissonnette

I have to sell how many? Jess Sands reviews the rules for the magazine drive.

Break the Line

The 1992 season was off to a flying start for the St. Bernard's Football Team. The Saints opened the season with victories over Lunenburg and Tantasqua. Then fate took a turn for the worse. Some injuries and a couple of tough opponents put the team in a rut, losing the next five games. Sensing the need to regroup, the Saints came back to beat Gardner at the bowl, winning their last home game. Then, it was on the road again, losing a close one to division rivals Holy Name. The Saints last game was on Thanksgiving Day at Clinton.

Despite the record, the Saints had an excellent squad to play the 1992 season. Led by senior captains Ryan Dooley, Randy St. Cyr, Andy Walsh, and Mike Norton, the squad fought hard resulting in some tough losses and glorious wins. Other seniors that helped to lead the team were Jim Miller, Jason McDermott, Eric Judge, Roberto Bosco, Nathan Bilotta, Keith Fischer, Jeremy Burby, Mike Paine, Brendan St. Jean, and Sean Walsh. Good luck in the future!

-Michael Norton

The J. V. Football Team was comprised of only twenty members from the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes. The team fought like small, hungry dogs. Within their short, five game season, the team did not record any wins, but this does not capture their efforts over the fourteen week season. Led by captains Brian Evans and Steven Thibodeau, the team showed coaches Leo LeClair and Dick Bush what they were all about. If success is measured in effort, this team was a winner.

Stick Breaking

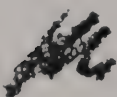

One word can describe the 1992 Varsity Field Hockey Team... DEDICATION. Twenty-one girls consisting of ten seniors, four juniors, five sophomores, and two freshmen made up this year's team. Though the team did not end its season with a winning record, the determination and the fun that the girls had made up for missing the feeling of victory. If you were to ask any member of the team how the season went, they might laugh at first, but they will tell you, "Hey, we had fun," and that is all that really matters.

The crack of the stick hitting the ball as the goal is made, and the accompanying cheer from the crowd is only half of what the game is about. The J.V. Field Hockey team experienced it all. With the help of Coach Tracy Cringan, these young athletes worked together as a team. They were aggressive out on the field. They tied, lost, and won games and had fun through it all. The team thanks their loyal fans for their contributions to morale and spirit. Their encouragement has been heartening. Next year these fans should find the team coming back stronger than ever.

The 1992 football season was an exciting one thanks to the spirit and enthusiasm of the cheerleading squad. Win or lose, the cheerleaders were always full of excitement for their football players. The cheerleaders were always on the sidelines with a smile. Even on the rainy Saturdays and bitter cold of November, the squad cheered their hearts out for the team. Under the leadership of team captains, Michelle Westerling, Heather Leclair, and Kerrie Carnes the squad's hard work and perseverance paid off.

The Boy's Soccer Team had a better season during this second year. Improved coaching helped immensely. Although hurt by the loss of a few good players, the team inherited some new talent this year which was a plus.

They finished the season 1-15-2 recording the first win in St. B's soccer history. Next year's team should have both a strong defense and offense since only four seniors are leaving, including Jason Burdett, the best offensive player of this past season.

Under the capable leadership of captains Mike Schnare and Josh Koziol, next year's team should win more games and become fierce competition.

Although the Girls' Varsity Soccer Team did not have a winning season, the members of the team had a lot of fun and learned about team spirit. The team was led by captains, Andrea Schneider, and Kelley Mueller and new coach, Jim Conry. The 1992 girls' soccer season began with a win and ended with a win. It was a tough year filled with some hardships and struggles overshadowed by true sportsmanship. Next year the team will be losing many of its seasoned players, but hopes to gain new talent from the incoming freshman.

Breaking for the Goal

The 1992 J.V. Boys' Soccer Team went through many changes during the season. With a new coach and new players added, the team had its ups and downs. With little to no experience, the Coach led his brutal team to a 3-7 record. Even though the team lost more games than it won, the players still had fun playing savage soccer. With captains Mike Scales and Sean Ouellette setting a hard-paced example, the rest of the team followed with determined ambition. The season's record might not reflect it, but it was a good year for this young team.

For the second year, St. Bernard's women also had a J.V. Soccer Team. Although the team didn't win a game, they did finally score in their last game, which had been their goal from the beginning. Under the direction of part-time coach Mark Pierce and goalie/captain Robin Haman, the team put its best foot forward and gave it the best shot possible.

The men's cross-country team proved its talent and showed a lot of promise this past season. The team finished with a record of six wins and seven losses. With a seventh place finish in the Wachusett Invitational and a twelfth place finish in Districts, the team established itself for the future. The majority of the team was composed of underclassmen, and the number of runners involved makes the future of St. Bernard's cross-country very exciting.

Break Away

The St. Bernard's hockey team had another good season, to match previous years. The team showed that they were not an overrated team in their tremendous first three victories over Leominster, Grafton, and Westboro. Led by senior tri-captains K.J. Duval, Ryan Dooley and Dan Marcotte, the team continued its great winning streak.

A momentous occasion of the season belonged to St B's Kevin Lizotte who scored one hundred goals and broke the record for points by a single person. And Kevin still has a year to go! Although the team has not finished the season, it has already secured a spot in the districts, and has a good chance to win the Russell Conference.

Strong Break

This year's J. V. team has played great hockey. With the incredible help of Dave Middleton, this team was unbeatable, or so it appeared during a seven game winning streak. This year's leading scorer was Corey LeBlanc, a freshman who rivals Kevin Lizotte. Freshman defenseman, Brad Gilbert, the second leading scorer, has been stopping everything that attempted to pass by him. For the last few games, after the academic loss of several players, the J. V. coach Rob Guinard had to train two new goal tenders, Jerome Ouellet and Keith Fischer, as replacements. After that, this team only had eight players left on the bench and struggled valiantly against the odds. With a tremendous effort, the core of the team managed to keep their heads high and play with heart until the end of the season.

-Jerome Ouellet

Coming in...Dave Sutton comes skating down the ice to get into the action.

Power play....Ivan Batallas is on his way to the goal.

C'mon team....Even from the bench the J. V. Hockey team is involved in the game.

Wild and Free

From last year's squad of six to this year's squad of eleven, the varsity hockey cheerleaders have made quite a comeback. Positive attitudes seem to have made this a great season. These young women work, not as individuals, but as a group, to support the hockey team. It is not just work, but also fun that they experience. Whether it is from Jen Cormier falling off the bleachers or somebody messing up a cheer, the whole squad seems to keep laughing and enjoying the season. Somehow they also managed to find time to bake for the hockey team, and even to put a party together for the team to celebrate the success of Kevin Lizotte. No matter how you look at these cheerleaders, they are extremely dedicated and devoted, and are sure to keep both the crowd's and the team's spirits high.

Fast Break

The year 1992-1993 was one of new found excitement for basketball at St. Bernard's. Newly appointed coach, Bob Morrison took over and immediately set a positive tone, as well as high standards, for the Bernardians. This team was a blend of experience and youth. The experience came in the form of five seniors: Rand Refrigeri, Joe Celata, Brian Turbide, and co-captains Mark Giovino and Jon Keaveny. The youth consisted of four juniors and three sophomores. The theme for this years' team was positive attitude, toughness, and smart play. The team was focused on delivering their best. Team and individual play came together this year as Mark Giovino collected his thousandth point against Marian High School. As a team, every game was a measure of how much better they would get. The team improved virtually every game and the results became solid wins. This group of young men spent countless hours practicing, and in the process became great friends and a close family. Besides being an excellent team and one of great character, this group will be remembered as the team which set the precedent and standard for St. Bernard's basketball for years to come.

The women's varsity basketball team has had an inspired year. The women were 18-2. The next two wins will make the women co-champions with Holy Name for the 1992-1993 season. The '92-'93 team has been a close one. Everyone has worked together for the benefit of the team and each other. The team has two freshmen, three sophomores, two juniors, and three seniors, led by tri-captains Beth Burzynski, Karen Dilling and Andrea Schneider. It is a young team, but has worked together and produced a successful year.

A special aid to this team was the opportunity to attend a clinic with the Boston Celtics. Two of the team members came home with extra special memories. Sarah Lahti had the chance to shoot hoops with Larry Bird, who then gave pointers, and Beth Burzynski covered Kevin McHale for defense. Coach Dave Farnsworth kept everyone together and really energized this team to never give up. This has been a great season and bodes well for the next.

St. Bernard's '92-'93 girls' J.V. basketball team this year had an excellent season. Last year's freshman team, having only one loss, prophesied a great season for this year's J.V. team. The prophecy came true. Even though some opponents were easy targets, other games had the fans on the edges of their seats. This year's team consisted of one junior, seven sophomores and four freshmen, coached by Ed Sullivan and assisted by co-captains Caitlin Fahey and Karen Woodland. With all their hustle and desire to win, this was a team that worked together as one unit. Their main goal was to be "No. 1" and they worked untiringly toward that goal.

In a good beginning to what should be a great basketball career at St. Bernard's, the freshman boys' basketball team members started off on the right foot. Although it was a rough year in the win/loss column they perceived it as a very successful year. Led by team captain Chris Refrigeri and coach Dennis Dolan, these young players learned valuable lessons. The freshman boys' basketball team appreciates the coaching staff, cheerleaders, and fans for all their support at games.

This year the basketball cheerleaders really had a team worth rooting for. We cheered them on through victory and defeat. In keeping with the fairly recent tradition of each cheerleader having a designated basketball player, some close relationships were formed.

This year the cheerleaders had an added attraction... male cheerleaders. Mike Norton and Fernando Rodriguez were regularly seen in our stunts- lifting girls and even throwing them in the infamous basket-toss.

We strived to unify the crowd and motivate the team. We also rewarded the team for their efforts and achievements. Mark Giovino was given befitting ceremony when he reached his thousandth point milestone, and each step to Districts was properly recognized.

The cheerleaders also "bonded" as a squad. We suffered through many early Sunday morning practices, held our own lively practices, traveled many miles for our team, danced, jumped, cheered, and tried our hardest to make basketball fun for everyone.

In a season when many of our teams were so successful, we were extremely proud to represent the boys' basketball team.

Breaking Wild

The junior varsity cheering squad would like to thank the many fans and players of St. Bernard's High School. The squad has been working very hard throughout the season to achieve one goal. This goal was to get the crowd psyched up and help bring the basketball team to victory. We would also like to thank our coach, Mrs. Brown, for her hard work and commitment. We are grateful for everyone's dedication. Thanks to the basketball team for the exciting games we have had together. We all anticipate more in the future.

-Michelle Cote & Lisa DiPaoli

Yeah, that was a good play... Natalie Marabello and Christen Barnicle talk about the game.

C'mon, I can't hear you.... Shannon Regan and Michelle Cote bring a response from the fans.

Late Breaking Story

As the Bernardian family embarked on a new school year, the rest of the world also experienced a new beginning. The year of 1992 proved to be a year of change at home as well as abroad and 1993 found America taking new steps to bring about progress.

The former Soviet nations underwent tremendous transitions this year as they adapted to life without Communism. Although the Cold War was over, the structure of one of the world's past super powers was in much confusion, and the fate of these states would only be decided with time.

The United Nations, in Operation Restore Hope, is fighting against time. The Somalians are suffering through a terrible famine, in which already over a quarter of the children under five have died. The U.S., in cooperation with the United Nations, has been attempting to help those in need through a humanitarian aid effort of troops and supplies.

Most Americans' attention focused on the endless variety of domestic problems. Natural disasters struck our shores as the people of Florida and the Carolinas became victims of Hurricane Andrew, which was the costliest natural disaster in American history, causing $22 billion in property damage and leaving 61 people dead. Meanwhile, this winter dealt the northern states quite a blow, with snowfalls well above the average of recent years.

The tragedy of AIDS moved ever closer to the American consciousness as the younger generation lost more and more victims to the HIV virus; while science was desperately searching for a cure to this deadly disease.

Politically, twelve years of Republican rule came to an end, when President George Bush was defeated by newcomer Governor Bill Clinton.

In the election of '92 the people mandated the need for change. Ross Perot, while achieving one of the highest percentages of votes for an independent in history, centered the American consciousness on the transformation of governmental policy. Lively debates brought the issues into the living rooms of middle America. With these issues in mind, voters made their choice and called for a new style of leadership.

This dramatic change began as President Clinton took office with a star-studded inauguration including intentional overtones reminiscent of his hero, JFK. Then, Mr. Clinton was immediately faced with some of the real challenges of the presidency, as he met head-on with such issues as gays in the military, tackling the deficit and launching a health care reform headed by his wife Hillary.

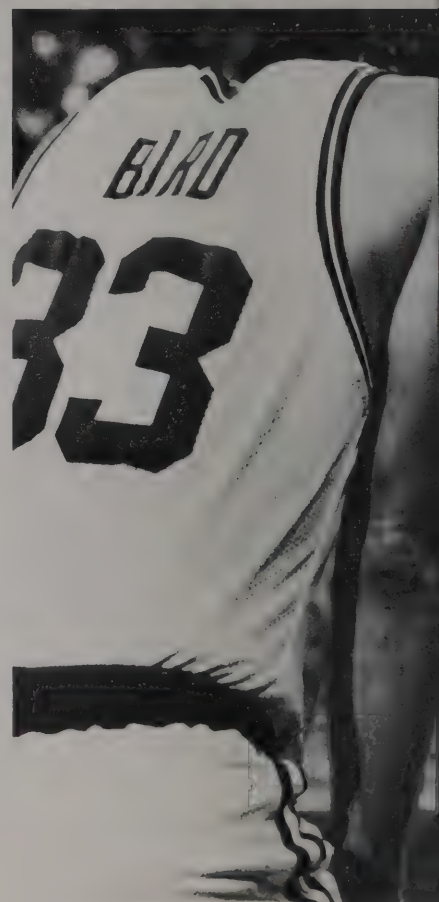

The 1992-1993 school year was a time of significant change not only for the Bernardians, but for the world as a whole.

-Jen Brown & Katie Abare

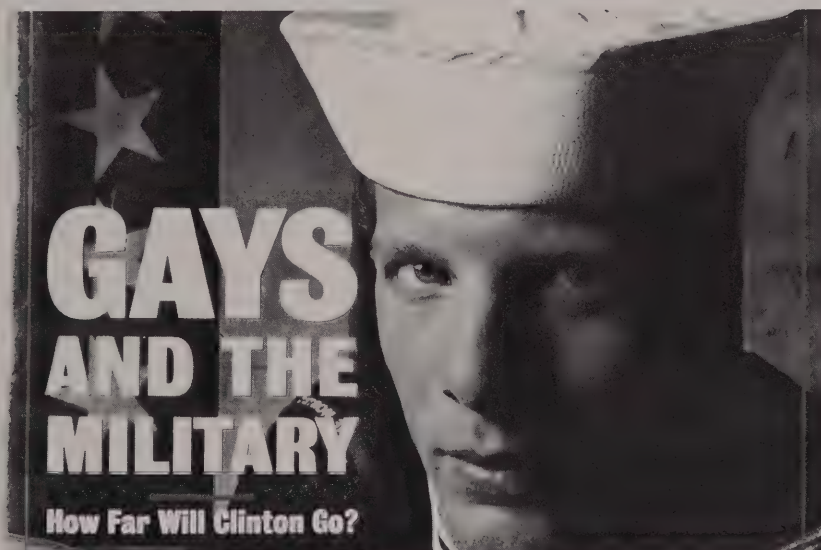

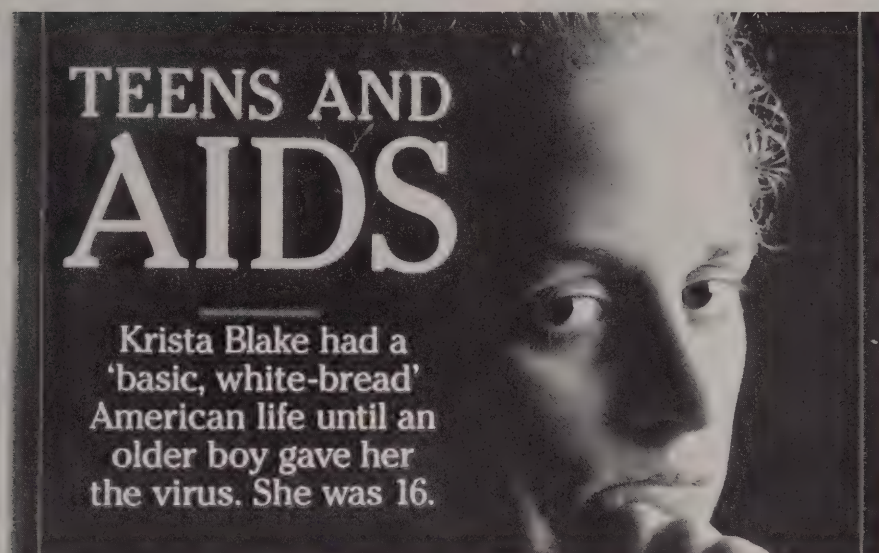

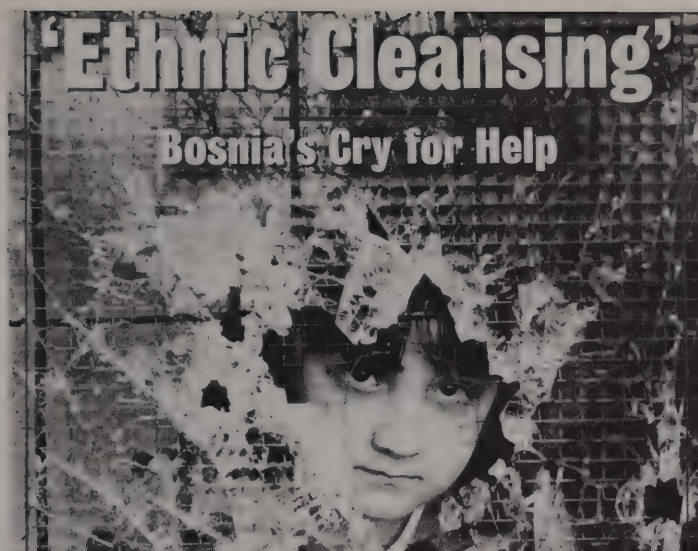

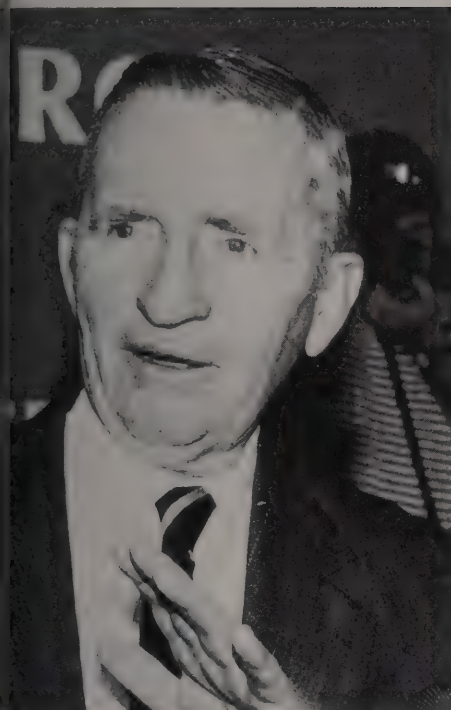

Through the years. The Clinton's rejoice in each other's arms after a tough, but victorious campaign.

Leave me alone, I tried. Ross Perot fights off the media.

Time for a break. Larry Bird and his number retire after a long successful career.

The weather started getting rough. A tiny ship is tossed by Hurricane Andrew.

Breaking It to You

This year's yearbook staff has had a challenging, yet exciting experience producing the 1993 Bernardian. Our dedication to the book began last summer at Josten's Yearbook Camp at Bryant College in Rhode Island. While having fun with editors from throughout New England, we also learned many new methods and current techniques in yearbook planning. Immediately in September, we began to work steadfastly on the production of The Bernardian. Despite obstacles in our path arising from the shift to computerization, overdue deadlines, and the loss of Mrs. Parks as an invaluable advisor, we persevered. Through it all, with the guidance of Mrs. Boudreau, the staff has stuck together. Rather than blame each other for the problems of publication, we have tried to help one another and put in a team effort. For this reason, we are very proud of the final product and are proud to have left our mark on St. Bernard's.

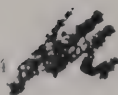

Are we having fun yet? Mrs. McGuirk and Mrs. Grenier show the effects of their labors.
